The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

The American Red Cross offers exceptional undergraduate and graduate students internship opportunities at our Red Cross national headquarters in Washington, D.C. and in chapters across the country through our Internship Program. Interns are matched with a specific department where they work on advancing critical projects.

The overall aim of the program is to attract a pool of diverse, skilled, enthusiastic young professionals and provide them with an opportunity to build a long-term, substantive life-long relationship with the Red Cross.

The Intern, Product Development (Aquatics) is a paid Internship where candidates must be enrolled in a degree program at the time of the internship. The opportunity is based in Fairfield, NJ.

This intern will be working closely with the Product Team on analyses of new product offerings/services and their effect on yr/yr revenues. This project will include interface with the Finance Organization and tracking methodologies and spreadsheet formulas need to be programmed. Other projects as determined by Senior Management.
